

Dear [supervisor name],

I have been personally invited to the Security Leadership Conference on October 5th in Brussels. I would greatly appreciate the opportunity to attend the conference.

By attending this conference, I expect to learn from 150+ peers, engage with experts and learn new developments that can help us optimize our security strategy, protect our data and better prepare ourselves against threats.

My attendance would allow me to:

Network with peers

The conference is set up to exchange knowledge and experience with peers. By founding out their challenges and how they resolved it, our organisation can learn how to overcome our challenges.

Learn from industry experts

Experts such as the Digital Champion of Belgium, the CISO of Brussels Airlines, Strategic Advisor of European Commissions, Cyber Security Leader at PWC Luxembourg and more will be sharing their success cases, tips and tricks.

Concrete plans

After attending the lectures, I expect to receive concrete and practical tips to implement within our own organisation.

Find new suppliers

20+ suppliers and consultants will be attending and introducing their products and services. I will be able to try out demo's and get acquainted with the organisations.

The costs for me to attend
